

'Quiet Reflection'

Pastels on velour by Vic Bearcroft - £57 per person

Quiet Reflection

Join me in this workshop learning how to paint animals in pastel on my favourite support – velour.

If you have never tried the combination of pastels and velour paper before, then this is a great opportunity to learn all the techniques, along with some invaluable tips, such as types of pastels best suited for the paper, use of fixatives, etc.

Velour paper is a unique surface, perfectly suited for painting animal fur, as well as enabling you to create soft textures – blurred backgrounds for example – with little effort.

The subject is a gorgeous cat from our local area, chilling out on a warm summer's day – perhaps on the lookout for mice in the long grass below.

Although you will learn all about painting fur – important for animal artists – you will also learn how to create soft effects, such as the hazy summer background light and atmospheric, even dramatic highlights that will give your paintings more appeal.

I will not hold back from passing on all the techniques and tips that I have acquired over a number of years, so that you can confidently go forward to paint your own animals, both domestic and wild, using the wonderful combination of pastels and velour.
