I have worked for 47 years in the Zoological world both at London Zoo and Marwell Zoo. Over the years I have been able to combine my experience and knowledge of wildlife with my passion for photography to capture the type of images inspirational to both professional and amateur Wildlife artists.

I travel extensively both in the UK and Europe looking for the right images for artists and over the years have come to realise artists are looking for more than just a photograph to work from, it needs to show an emotional attachment to the subject and its surroundings.

The purchaser has exclusive ownership of the photograph. No other person will be able to purchase or use that image. Many art societies now insist on paintings entered into exhibitions must be reproduced from either their own photographs or those purchased as sole rights. When an image has been purchased it will be deleted from the library therefore the purchaser has the only copy.

I do hope you find what you are looking for, if not please do not hesitate to contact me to discuss your requirements .
